Investing in a Prosperous Community.

Always Committed to Advocacy

Our predecessors in the late 1800s created this organization to solve challenges so that the business community could grow and prosper. And grow and prosper it did.

Over the years, our advocacy expanded around needs pertinent to each generation's challenges. Here are just 3 examples:

Last year, our advocacy was evident in the Department of Labor's overtime regulations. When first proposed, the Chamber helped constituents share their voices across the country. And once final, we focused on helping local employers know what they needed to do to comply. (Ultimately, a judge ruled to not implement the final rule.)

In 2013, Lancaster businesses came together under the Chamber's leadership to advocate for transportation funding. This effort resulted in more than 1,000 messages sent to legislators; and we had all of our legislators (Democrats and Republicans) vote in favor of the transportation package that would help to advance business and economic development in our region.

Think Local is a program the Chamber launched in 2011 aimed at improving our local economy through educating consumers and businesses on the impact of purchasing from local companies. In a recent survey, 72% of individuals reported they are patronizing local businesses more than they were just three years ago.

Engaged In Enhancing Prosperity

We've heard time and again there is a direct correlation between businesses thriving and a community's quality of life being enhanced. Much of our work is focused on community and legislative issues impacting economic growth and community vitality. We are advancing a pro-prosperity agenda focused on areas such as:

1. Comprehensive Tax & Pension Reform
2. Workforce Readiness & Competitiveness
3. Infrastructure & Planning

In addition, we measure, monitor, raise awareness of and create high levels of engagement around these key dimensions of prosperity:

Community &
Culture

Economic Engine

Education

Health &
Safety
